Statement of College Philosophy Regarding Funds for Gifts, Gratuities, and Awards

College of Veterinary Medicine

The College of Veterinary Medicine, Mississippi State University recognizes that there is a wide variety of sources of gifts, gratuities, donations, and awards which may be granted to the College. Many of these come from private and industrial sources. The College is not opposed to receiving such gifts and, in fact, recognizes the advantages to the students and the College. It is recognized that the College should have a uniform policy and procedure for acceptance of such gifts and we have thus adopted the following College philosophy.

All gifts, gratuities, donations and awards presented to the College will be accepted through the MSU Development Foundation. All funds will be distributed according to the guidelines of the fund. Award and scholarship designations will be determined on the basis of intention of donor and needs of the college. Contributors to the Development Foundation will be recognized at such time as these awards or scholarships are granted.
